Taking the rubbish out

The saying goes "garbage in, garbage out". Tax professionals spend too much time each year trawling through data to correct it, with 20% of businesses spending more than 50 days annually just producing their VAT returns. Data cleansing can enable you to:

- Significantly reduce the amount of time taken to compile returns
- Use automated checks for duplicates and out-of-period transactions to highlight obvious errors
- Focus your time on material figures, or spot transactions where rates look wrong.
