You can't check every transaction

When reviewing compliance, you can't check every number but you do know 'what right looks like'. One of the most important checks you can make to gain comfort that the submission is correct is trend analysis. Analysing source data can enable you to:

- Compare the Return to all prior periods to check for consistency
- Access the detail behind the Return to investigate anomalies
- See useful statistics such as the number of manual adjustments to detect discrepancies
- See your projected liability ahead of time and plan accordingly.
